

PLEASE, I hope they never let the telemarketers start calling on the phone again. I am 82 years old and I've had several surgeries. Open Heart, Hip replacement, broken arm and also neuropathy. I can hardly walk some days, my family gets my groceries and the pharmacy delivers my medicines. To the point-I do not need to get up and answer all those unnecessary phone calls. I don't have money to buy anything they are selling anyway, because I am on Social Security. What if I fell again getting up to answer one of their phone calls!
